

Activism in academia

When: Lunch-lunch (one overnight stay), 29-30 October, 2019

Where: Mid Sweden University, Sundsvall

With: Diana Mulinari from Lund's University and Angelika Sjöstedt Landén, Lovise Haj Brade and Anna Olovsson Lööv from Mid Sweden University.

During this stay we intend to focus on and dig deeper into what activism in academia means and what it can mean. What different forms of activism are there? What role does activism play for gender researchers and others using critical perspectives? How do we experience our own fields when it comes to activism? What different ways of activism can be identified in our own fields? How can we do activism? How do we feel and think about activism in academia?

Tuesday October 29

12.00: Self-paid lunch at Campus

13.00-16.00: Introducing the stay, some researchers from Mid Sweden University will share their experiences of activism in academia and their research.

16.15-17.15: InterGender PhD-cohort meeting

18.00: Pre-paid dinner together at a restaurant in town

Wednesday October 30

09.00-12.00: Professor Diana Mulinari, Gender Studies, Lund's University will give a lecture and hold a workshop based around activism in academia and talk about "Scholarships of hope".

Readings: the introduction to "The politics of autonomy in Latin America. The politics of organising hope"

12.00: Lunch and evaluation

Registration

To register for this workshop, please email: lisa.ridzen@miun.se no later than Friday October 18. Please include any allergies or other food preferences.

InterGender has offered 3 grants each of 1000 SEK for travelling and/or accommodation. The first three to register for this workshop will receive this grant of 1000 SEK each. If you feel that you are not in need of this grant, please let us know in your registration so that it can go to someone in more need of funding.